

House of Mercy Privacy Policy for Visitors, Donors and Volunteers

This is an official Privacy Policy of House of Mercy, last revised 6.22.10.

Collection and use of personally identifiable information:

House of Mercy may collect addresses, phone numbers, email addresses and other personally identifiable data when such data is voluntarily submitted to House of Mercy. We do not share this information with any third party. House of Mercy does not sell or otherwise disclose your personal information outside the organization.

We may use or disclose personal information only if required to do so by law or in the good-faith belief that such action is necessary to a) conform to applicable law or comply with legal process served on us or this site; b) protect and defend our rights or property, this site or our users; and c) act under emergency circumstances to protect the personal safety of us, our clients, agents, site users, or the public.

Your options:

We recognize that you may wish to limit the ways in which we contact you. You may request:

1. Do not contact me by telephone.
2. Do not contact me by postal mail.
3. Do not contact me by email.
4. Do not contact me for fundraising purposes.

Identified cash donors and donors of in-kind contributions (food, wish list items, etc.) are recognized in the House of Mercy newsletter annually. If you wish, donors may request to remain anonymous. This reminder is included in every thank you we mail to donors.

To review personal information collected by House of Mercy and to request corrections contact:
